Need to find further information on the marriages of the following:

Euphemia Drake m: 1-9-1845 to James Bailey
Maryann Drake m: 10-3-1844 to John MacKay
Phebe Drake m: 11-9-1847 to William Matthews

I did find William and Phebe Matthews in the 1850 Census, living next door to John and Mary Drake in Erie/Peru, Miami Co., OH, with a daughter, Nancy Matthews. Where did they go from there?

Can not locate Euphemia or Maryann. I do know that Euphemia ended up traveling through the plains in 1854 and ended up in Sacramento, CA, but again, I can not find her on the census. According to letters in the family, Euphemia divorces her husband and adopts all the children out, with one (Mary) returning to her by 1860. I have been looking for the names of the children, unknown how many.

I believe all three women were the daughters of John and Mary Drake who ended up settling in Black Earth, Dane Co., WI, along with their sons Samuel and John.

I hope someone can assist me in my search. Thank you for your time.

Need to find further information on the marriages of the following:

Catharine Drake to 1-9-1815 to James Bailey
Mary and Drake to 10-3-1814 to John Black Jr.
Phebe Drake to 11-28-1827 to William Mathews

I did find William and Phebe Mathews in the 1830 Census living near Joseph Dale and Mary Drake in Lost Creek, Miami Co., IN. with a daughter, Nancy Mathews. Where did they go from there?

I am not sure Euphemia or Margaret Drake that Euphemia married up with living through the picnic in 1854 and ended up in Scottsmoor, CA, but Margaret, I can not find her on the census. According to history in the family, Euphemia divorced her husband and adopted all the children out, with one (Mary) remaining to live by 1860. I have been looking for the names of the children, unknown now, again.

I believe all three women were the daughters of John and Mary Drake were raised by settling in Block Lost, Drake Co., WI, along with their sons Samuel and John.

I hope someone can assist me in my search. Thank you for your time.

JACKSON TOWNSHIP.

In 1842, Thomas Crevison, and Silas Braffet, two stalwart energetic young men, having determined to try their fortunes in a new country came and built two cabins near the line between Miami and Grant counties. The cabin of Braffet, stood just across the line in Richland township, Grant county, while Crevison was in Jackson township, Miami county, on the land now owned by his son. Crevison was not long alone in his forest home, but was joined the same year, 1842, by the following men: John Powell, who settled on the farm which still bears the same name; Thomas Mason, who settled on the F. M. Davis farm and Thomas Adamson, who located on the land upon which a part of the town where Xenia (Converse) now stands.

The year 1843, brought several men who afterwards played a prominent part in the affairs of the township. They were Oliver H. Macy, who settled in January of that year on the land which is the present site of part of Xenia; John Gates, on the farm now owned by Nelson, and James Que, on what is known as the Ladd farm.

In 1844, James McKinley settled on the farm where he is now living. The same year came James C. Poulson, locating on the farm now owned by Busby; Wm. Bowman, on the Helms farm; Samuel Lung, on that now owned by Lloyd; James Calhound, on the Darby farm; — —— Bond, on the farm which still bears the same name; David Daniels, on Pipe Creek, on what is known as the Helm's farm; Abraham C. on that now belonging to McCoy; Samuel, Butler, on that now owned by Isaac Moore and Henley Thomas, whose location was changed quite frequently.

In 1845, John Long located on the Helm farm; Samuel Draper, on that where he now lives; Jabez Berry, on that now owned by Darby; Wm. Overman, on the farm where he is now living; Arch Moorman, on the farm which still bears that name; Eli Overman on the Samuel Edwards farm; David Draper on the Pence farm; Jonathan Pearson on the Haines and Thomas farms; Samuel Butler on that now belonging to Morris, with Michael Hollingsworth, and Nathan Arnold, whose exact location is not known.

In 1846, the township was organized. O. H. P. Macy got up a petition to this effect, which was signed by all the men in the township excepting two, who gave as a reason for not allowing their names to be placed on the petition, (that they wanted to keep law and order, out of the township as long as possible). The petitioners desired the name Liberty to be given the township, O. H. P. Macy walked to Peru and presented the papers to the commissioners who granted the request, substituting the name Jackson and (in memory of Andrew Jackson), for that of Liberty.

In 1846, and 47, came the following men: Wm. Bond, George W. Gates, Thomas Stilwell, Wm. Ballinger, Solomon Wright, Calvin Edgerton, Jacob Robbins, Newton Tanguary, Elihu Endsley, Wm. Tanguary, James Wimmer, Joseph Shook, Morgan Williams, Wm. Berry, Ira Steel, John Pearson and P. B. Lamb.

In 1848 and 49, the following worthy men entered the township: Thomas Shinn, F. M. Davis, Joseph Powell, David and Wm. Adams, Abraham Bell, Elliott Walker, Willis Elliott, David Stanley, Samuel Darby, Henry Cooper, Thomas Sullivan, Moses Kimball, Jacob Riggle, Jacob, John Jr., and John Sr., Hudley, Jefferson and Jesse Shinn, Moses McCoy, Wesley and Elijah Draper, Robert Cook, Hiram Pearson, and Benj. Benhow.

The first meeting in the township was held in the cabin of John Powell's in 1845, by the Methodists. The first preachers of this denomination were Abraham C., Alfred Tharp and Elias Masters. A little later in the same year 1845 meeting was held at the house of James C. Poulson, by the United Brethren. George C. Smith, preaching.

The first church in the township was built in Xenia, in 1849, by the Wesleyan Methodists. In 1855, another was built by the Episcopal Methodists. The next by the denomination known as Christian or Disciples. In 1856, the United Brethren and Wesleyan Methodists united and built a church in Xenia.

In 1848, Samuel Draper, O. P. H. Macy, and Thomas Mason, school directors built the first school house on the farm of Benj. Davis. The same year (1848) another was built on the farm of Mr. Gates. Some of the early teachers were Thomas Reece, Mason Tharp, Elizabeth Cook, David Stanfield and Harvey Cooper.

In 1846, about thirty days after the organization of the township, the first election was held at the cabin of James C. Poulson.

Abraham See acted as inspector.

The first justice of the peace was David Daniels; constable, Abraham See. Probably the first trustees were James McKinley and Babriel Hayes.

The first marriages celebrated in the township were those of Chas. Marine, to Maria Ballinger; Oscar Addington, to Mary A. Norris; and Peter Cluster to Cinda Wright. These all occurred about the year 1848.

In May, 1844, a daughter, Susannah was born to James C. and Delilah Poulson, which was probably the first birth of the township.

The first death was an infant child of Thomas and Mary Eddington.

In improvements, Jackson has made commendable progress.

The Story of Frances Slocum

aka "The Lost Sister Story"

THE MORNING REPUBLICAN: Scranton (PA), Saturday, June 19, 1869

From the Chicago Standard

THE LOST SISTER, FRANCES SLOCUM.

A Visit to Her Descendants.

BY G. S. BAILEY, D. D.

The story of Frances Slocum is one of thrilling interest. She was stolen by the Delaware Indians from her father's house near Wilkes-Barre, in Wyoming Valley, Luzerne county, Pa., on the second day of November, 1778, when she was a child five years of age. They took her from the house in broad daylight before the eyes of her mother, and that mother never saw her child again. The brothers of Frances, Joseph and Isaac Slocum, grew to manhood and advanced to old age, making inquiry and search for their lost sister whenever they could hear of any white woman among the Indian tribes who they thought might be their sister, sometimes offering large rewards in money for her discovery. More than sixty years passed away before they found the lost sister. She was at last discovered, as the widow of an Indian Chief, living on the banks of the Mississenawa(sic) river, about seven miles from its mouth, where it empties into the Wabash, near Peru in Indiana.

As I was born in the same county from which Frances Slocum was stolen and acquainted with many of her relatives, and had heard my mother tell the story when I was a child and before she was discovered, and having read the accounts given in the several histories of Wyoming concerning her, I had a strong desire to visit her descendants, and her Indian home. Finding myself unexpectedly at Peru, Indiana, a few days ago, I made inquiries in regard to her and her discovery, and was happy to learn that the man who first found her was still residing at Peru--James T. Miller, exq., now the county treasurer of Miami county. I had the pleasure of hearing from him the particulars of the story.

Mr. Miller was a Indian trader and interpreter, making Peru the headquarters of his operations, and had lived there from childhood, and learned the Miami Indian tongue, and for many years the savages were almost his only neighbors and associates. Col. Geo. W. Ewing was the Indian agent stationed at Logansport, Ind. In January, 1835, Mr. Miller and Col. Ewing were traveling through the forests, and being belated and the Colonel not feeling well, Mr. Miller proposed that they should go and stop over night with the white woman among the Indians. Colonel Ewing had never heard of any white woman among the Indians there, but Mr. Miller assured him there was one, the wife of the Deaf Man, as her husband was called by the whites, because he became totally deaf when between thirty and forty years of age. They soon fell into a trail in the snow, made by the white woman's son-in-law, Brouillette, who had killed a deer and taken it home. Colonel Ewing suggested to Mr. Miller that they should find out the history of this white woman, and if possible make her known to her relatives. They were kindly and hospitably received at her log house on the bank of the Mississenawa, and found her in such poor health that she thought she would not live long. She was then an old woman and being under the impression she would soon die she was more than ever before ready to give some items of her history. Mr. Miller drew her into conversation about herself, and Col. Ewing sat behind her and noted down the items which he caught from the conversation.

She remembered that the Delaware Indians came to her father's house and carried her off when she was a very little girl; that her father was a Quaker, wore a broad-brimmed hat and a round coat, and his name was Slocum; that he lived on the Susquehanna river near a fort. Several of the family were away from the house when the Indians came, but her mother, sister, and brother were there. The Indians took what things they wanted from the house, and while they were pillaging, Frances and her little brother hid under the stairs. But the Indians discovered her, picked her up and carried her off screaming. Her elder sister caught up her little brother and ran off with him, and thus saved him from the savages. A boy that was living with the Slocums was shot by the Indians as he was grinding a knife near the door. Two other children, whose name she thought was Kingsley, were taken by the Indians at the same time, but as they cried constantly, the Indians became tired of them and killed them. They stopped the first night in a cave, where the Indians had left their blankets and other articles while they went out on this raid. Frances soon learned the Indian language and forgot her own. They wandered a different times from place to place, living for while near Niagara, then near Detroit, then at Fort Wayne, and finally on the Mississenawa.

Colonel Ewing, on his return to Logansport, desired to make some effort to discover her relatives, as they were still probably living. He wrote the facts which he had learned, to the Postmaster of Lancaster, Pa., and suggested their publication. The Postmaster received the letter, but thinking it all a hoax, threw it aside as worthless. After his death his wife found the letter among his old papers, some two years after it was written, and sent it to an editor in Lancaster, who published it in his paper. A copy of this paper fell into the hands of Joseph Slocum, then residing in Wyoming Valley, who immediately recognized the facts as those connected with his lost sister. He at once wrote to Colonel Ewing, and became satisfied that this was his lost sister Frances.

Isaac Slocum, another brother, had moved to Ohio, near Sandusky. On learning of the discovery of his sister, he started at once to find her. In May 1838, he came to Peru, Indiana, stopped at the hotel, and sent at once for Mr. Miller, who kept a store in the village; but Mr. Slocum not sending word as to his name or errand, Mr. Miller was told that an old gentleman, a stranger, was at the hotel, and wished to see him. He replied that he was busy and could not go. Soon a boy came with a request that Mr. Miller should come immediately, as the old man was very anxious to see him. He sent word that he would come in half an hour. Soon the boy came back and said the old man was very anxious to see him at once. Mr. Miller then went, leaving two Indian girls in the store till he should come back. They were the daughters of Frances Slocum! Mr. Miller went to the hotel and instantly recognized the old man as a brother of the white woman, by their strong family resemblance, and at once went up to him and called him Mr. Slocum. The old man asked how he knew his name was Slocum.

THE LOST SISTER FRANCES SLOCUM.

A Visit to Her Descendants.

BY C. S. BAILEY, D. D.

"By your resemblance to the white woman who lives among the Indians."

Mr. Slocum burst into tears.

"Is it possible that I have found her at last, after a search of sixty years?"

"Yes, you must be her brother. Two of her daughters are now in town and at my store."

"I want to see them. I will go with you."

"Yes, I wish you to see them, but I think I had better see them first, and you come down to my store with this boy in about twenty minutes."

Mr. Miller went and told the girls that he had found their uncle. They did not believe it.

"Yes, he is certainly your uncle. He looks very much like your mother."

"No, we do not believe he is our uncle. Others have claimed to be our relatives when they were not."

"Well, he is coming yonder with that boy. Now you look at him and see if he does not look like your mother."

They stood and watched him as he came up. The oldest girl was convinced and greeted him cordially and shook hands. The youngest girl ran to the back end of the store and began to cry. Mr. Miller tried to pacify her.

"Yes, I know it is my mother's brother, and he has come to take my mother and carry her off."

"No, he has only come to see her and make her a visit."

Mr. Miller at length persuaded her to come and speak to her uncle, though she was evidently afraid he had come to carry off her mother.

It was then late in the afternoon, but Mr. Slocum insisted on going that night to see his sister, some eight or nine miles distant. Mr. Miller accompanied him, but was careful to send the girls home by the shortest route to apprise their mother of their coming, while he purposely took a longer route. When on the way he asked Mr. Slocum if she had any certain mark by which he could recognize his sister.

"Yes; a lock of hair over one ear was perfectly white, while all the rest was sandy."

"Well, but all her hair may be white now. She is an old woman. Have you any other mark?"

"Yes; my brother one day hit her finger with a hammer on the anvil in the shop, and pounded off the end of her forefinger on her left hand. That mark she must carry still."

They reached the banks of the Mississenawa, just opposite her house, which stood so near the bank that subsequently it had to be moved to a higher point a few rods distant. Mr. Miller requested Mr. Slocum to remain on the bank until he crossed and saw the white woman. He forded the river, went to the house, and shook hands with the woman. The fingers on the right hand were all perfect. He took up the left hand, and the end of the forefinger was gone. He was fully convinced. The girls were already at home and had told the story. Mr. Miller went back and came over with Mr. Slocum. The long separated brother and sister were soon clasped in each other's arms. There was no reserve. She at once recognized the family resemblance, and acknowledged the relation. She could talk but very little English. Mr. Slocum was overcome and wept. The fountains pent up so long during his disappointed search, were now opened. He had found his lost sister, and his grateful emotions could only be expressed in a flood of tears. She was more composed. Supper was prepared. Mr. Slocum could not eat. He was too happy, too excited. When Mr. Miller retired to rest, the brother and sister were sitting side by side on a bench, talking as best they could. When he awoke in the morning they were sitting in the same place talking still. He thought they had talked all night.

The next day they went to Peru, where Isaac Slocum entertained his Indian relatives and they thus returned his visit. After a few days Mr. Slocum returned (to) his home in Ohio. Subsequently Joseph Slocum and his two daughters visited Frances at her Indian home. They endeavored to pursuade her to return home with them, but she was completely an Indian in language, habits, associations, and everything except blood, and she had no desire to leave those who had always treated her kindly, and abundantly provided for her. She was then an old woman, and could not expect to live many years. She was a queen among the Indians, and could never expect to feel at home in civilized society. She died in 1847. Her relatives had secured a grant of a section of land for her and her descendants. She had two sons and two daughters. The oldest daughter was married to Jean Baptiste Brouilette, a half-breed French and Indian. Her second daughter has lost three husbands, and is now living with the fourth, Wa-sa-pe-tah, now the Rev. Peter Bondy, a Baptist minister who preaches to his people in their native tongue.

The day following my interview with Mr. Miller, I went in company with Rev. Mr. Trenneman, in a buggy, to visit the descendants of Frances Slocum. We crossed the Wabash on a bridge at Peru, and some two or three miles beyond we crossed the Mississenawa, a mile or two from its mouth, also on a fine covered bridge. This is a beautiful stream of clear, crystal water, running over a rocky bottom, and bordered by beautiful woodlands or richly cultivated bottom lands. This fine brick two-story farm house just before us, with a nice garden, orchard, and out-houses, is the home of Godfrey, the half-breed war chief of the tribe. Those men there at work with wagon and team are Indians, and those boys at work in the garden have also the tawny hue, though in all other respects they seem like other boys. About half the houses we pass are the homes of Indians, though we cannot guess from any of the surroundings, whether the owners are whites or Indians. Here we are upon the banks of the Mississenawa, some twenty or thirty feet above its surface, and beneath us, forming the perpendicular bank, are some curiously formed bluffs of lime rock, with caves and grottoes in which pic-nic parties sometimes find a pleasant resort. The river has made a large bend, and now we reach it and ford its bright, clear waters, which do not quite reach our feet in the buggy.

Passing now a group of homes and a mill or two, a rather shabby village called Peoria, very different from the beautiful city of that name in Illinois, a mile beyond we reach the home of Frances Slocum, the lost sister. On a beautiful rounded knoll, some twenty rods from the Mississenawa, and perhaps fifty feet above its surface, stands a double log house with a wide passage between the two parts, but one roof covering the whole, with porches the whole length both front and rear, and plain home-like look about the yard. This was the home of the white woman, and here resides her daughter O-sou-wa-pak-shin-quah, Yellow Leaves, (so named because born in autumn, when the leaves are changing,) now the wife of Wa-pa-pe-tah which means all over white, as he was born in winter when the ground was white with snow. His English name, as I have said, Peter Bondy.

We are cordially greeted by brother Bondy, whom we had met before and are introduced to his wife a matronly looking woman, who cordially shakes hands, and looks both pleased and interested as I tell her that I came from the county from which her mother was stolen when a child, and that I was acquainted with her relatives. But she speaks not a word of English. We enter one part of the spacious log house. A bed stands on each side of the door and another in another corner, on which, partly reclining, is her daughter, recently injured by the kick of a horse; an educated, sensible young lady of about twenty years, ready to converse and act as interpreter when required. She spoke good English. A daughter of Brouillete also was present, a girl of sixteen or eighteen. Her father and mother are both dead and lie buried in the yard near the house, as also do Frances Slocum and her husband.

We immediately entered into conversation.

"What was Frances Slocum's Indian name?"

"Ma-coon-squah"

"What did that name mean?"

"The Young Bear."

I learned from Mrs. George Slocum, who lives near them, that the Indians gave her this name because when they stole her she cried for a long time and they tried to pacify her by giving her nice things, but she would strike them from her in anger, like a young bear, hence they called her Ma-coon-squah.

"What was her husband's Indian name?"

"The whites called him the Deaf Man, because he was totally deaf for many years. His Indian name was She-bak-o-nah."

"What does She-bak-o-nah mean?"

"Ah me no English."

"Well, can't you give some idea of it?"

He went to his bureau and took out a small iron rod about sixteen inches long, with a hole in the one end and pointed at the other. Holding it up he said, "That is the name. That is She-bak-o-nah."

"An Arrow?"

"No."

"A spear?"

"No, not a spear."

"Well, what is it?"

"Me no English."

"Well, what do you do with it?"

"Me kill deer, kill bear, kill buffalo, put string through this hole, stick it through meat, slip it on the string, hang it up to dry. This is She-bak-o-nah."

That is, a big needle to string venison with, to dry. He shows me two tomahawks, the handles ornamented with silver bands, and inlaid with silver images of rabbits, a pipe constituting the upper part of the tomahawk the handle answering for the stem to smoke through. One of these and his shebakonah he gives me for the cabinet of curiosities in our Theological Seminary in Chicago.

Taking the tomahawk he put it by his side as if in a belt, and said, "Me carry this when wild Indian, savage."

"What did you carry it for?"

"Me shoot deer' come up to him, he not quite dead; me hit him."

"Did you ever carry it in war, in battle?"

He shook his head and answered, "No."

He said, "white man cheat Indian; cheat Indian bad-fifty dollars for tomahawk."

He showed me his wooden mortar and pestle where he pounded corn into meal. Several bushels of ears of seed corn were hung up by the husk, the ears having a half dozen different colors of corn on each.

We went to the grave of Frances Slocum, but two or three rods from the house, where are perhaps a dozen graves. One was marked with a marble stone, that of Rev. Jean Baptiste Brouillette, who died two years ago, universally esteemed as an earnest Christian minister.

Frances Slocum found her home surrounded by white settlements, and felt the need of some friend to protect her rights. She desires either her brothers settle near her. This they could not do, but George Slocum, her brother Isaac's son, settled near them in 1847. He was an earnest Christian and a member of a Baptist church.

He learned their language and interested himself in their tenporal and spiritual welfare to the time of his death, some five or six years ago. I visited his widow and was most hospitably entertained at dinner. Brother Slocum had the satisfaction of seeing three Indian Baptist churches raised up there, and others have emigrated to Kansas and formed an Indian Baptist church there also. Brouillette was the first convert. Wa-pa-pe-tah (Peter Bondy) was also convicted about the same time, and both of them became Baptist preachers.

The Indians are quite poetic in their names, all of which seem to have a meaning. Brouillette's daughter, whom I saw, was born when he was past fifty years of age, and he called her O-se-nah-kis-a-me-quah (The Last Rays of the Setting Sun). Her English name is the unpoetic one of Nancy.

Some years ago the government removed most of the Miamis to the Indian Territory. This they regarded as a great hardship, and would only go as they were compelled to, by an armed force sent for that purpose. When leaving, I was told, they would fall prostrate on the ground, kiss the earth and weep bitterly to leave their dear Mississenawa valley, and each carried away a little bag of the Mississenawa earth with him when he left. About six hundred removed to the West, while only about three or four hundred remained. These are now cultivating farms and have increased to about eight hundred, while those who removed have dwindled to three hundred, a proof that Indians can live and prosper as farmers.

The name of the civil chief of the tribe is Mo-shin-go-ma-sha, who, with those around him, occupies ten or twelve square miles of land, a few miles away from the home of Frances Slocum.

How singular the providence of God in the captivity and life of this lost sister! Yet as a final result many of that benighted people have become Christians, and several connected with her family have become faithful ministers of Christ.

"What did that name mean?"

"The Young Bear."

I learned from Mrs. George Slocum, who lives near them, that the Indians gave her this name because when they stole her she cried for a long time and they tried to pacify her by giving her nice things, but she would strike them for in anger, like a young bear, hence they called her 'Ma-coon-aqua.'

"What was her husband's Indian name?"

"The whites called him the Deaf Man, because he was totally deaf for many years. His Indian name was She-bak-o-nak."

"What does She-bak-o-nak mean?"

"Ah me no English."

"Well, can't you give some idea of it?"

He went to his lunch and took out a small iron rod about sixteen inches long, with a hole in the one end and pointed at the other, holding it up he said, "That is the name. That is She-bak-o-nak."

"An Arrow?"

"No."

"A spear?"

"No, not a spear."

"Well, what is it?"

"Me no English."

"Well, what do you do with it?"

"Me kill deer, kill bear, kill buffalo, put string through this hole, stick it through meat, slip it on the string, hang it up to dry. This is She-bak-o-nak."

I left it, a big needle to string venison with, to dry. He above is one I procured. The handles ornamented with silver beads, and initial with silver images of rabbits, a pipe constituting the upper part of the tomahawk the handle answering for the stem to smoke through. One of these and his she-bak-onak he gives me for the cabinet of curiosities in our Theological Seminary in Chicago.

Taking the tomahawk he put it by his side as if in a belt, and said, "Me carry like when wild Indian, savage."

"What did you carry it for?"

"Me shoot deer, come up to him, he not quite dead, me hit him."

"Did you ever carry it in war, in battle?"

He shook his head and answered, "No."

He said, "white man cheat Indians cheat Indian bad—fifty dollars for tomahawk."

He showed me his wooden mortar and pestle where he pounded corn into meal. Several bushels of ears of seed corn were hung up by the husk, the ears having a half dozen different colors of corn on each.

We went to the grave of Frances Slocum, but two or three rods from the house, where are perhaps a dozen graves. One was marked with a marble stone, that of Rev. Jean Baptiste Bronillette, who died two years ago, universally esteemed as an earnest Christian minister.

Frances Slocum found her home surrounded by white settlements, and felt the need of some friend to protect her rights. She desires either her brothers settle near her, This they could not do, but George Slocum, our brother Isaac's son, settled near them in 1837. He was an earnest Christian and a member of a Baptist church.

He learned their language and interested himself in their temporal and spiritual welfare to the time of his death, some five or six years ago. I visited his widow and was most hospitably entertained at dinner. Brother Slocum had the satisfaction of seeing three Indian Baptist churches raised up there, and others have congregated to Kinnes and formed an Indian Baptist church there also. Bronillette was the first convert. Wa-pa-pe-tah (Peter Bond) was also converted about the same time, and both of them became Baptist preachers.

The Indians are quite poetic in their names, all of which seem to have a meaning. Bronillette's daughter, whom I saw, was born when he was past fifty years of age, and he called her O-se-nah-kis-a-mo-quah (The Last Ray of the Setting Sun). Her English name is the unpoetic one of Nancy.

These are now cultivating farms and have increased to about eight hundred, while those who removed have dwindled to three hundred, a proof that Indians can live and prosper as farmers.

The name of the civil chief of the tribe is Ah-ko-tah-go-no-qua, who, with those around him, occupies ten or twelve square miles of land, a few miles west from the home of Frances Slocum.

How singular the providence of God in the captivity and life of this lost sister! Yet as a final result many of that benighted people have become Christians, and several connected with her family have become faithful ministers of Christ.

Your discussion was several years ago, so perhaps more information has been found. I'm wondering how my Hannah and James McKay fit into this line.

My Hannah was born to James McKay (1807-1893)m. Polly/Mary/Mary Ann Hosley (1812-1874) on 24 January 1832.

Polly was born in Nelson county, KY.

James was born in Shenandoah VA and died in Converse IN. His father was ? Alexander McKay born Scotland, ca. 1751, and died in Jefferson county, KY in 1820.

Hannah, the fifth of eight children, was born 11 May 1840 in Greensburg, Decatur county, IN and died 6 December 1930 in Converse, Miami county, IN. She married Joel Blue Bryant 12 February 1867 in Converse. They had at least three children, James Otto, Cora Alice, and William J.

Cora was my paternal g-grandmother. My grandfather was the only child of a brief first marriage to William Howard Shrock. She remarried and had several additional children.

Joel Blue Bryant was my gg-grandfather. His mother was Charlotte Anderson who was the second wife of Garner Bryant. Josiah was the youngest of six children. Garner's first wife was Sarah Hudson. I have a marriage date, but no children indicated.

Josiah and Joel enlisted in the Indiana Volunteers during the Civil War.

I have Garner and Charlotte children listed as Susannah, John, Sarah Elizabeth, Druella, Joel Blue, and Josiah.

Charlotte was born in Clark county OH where she and Garner married. They then emigrated to Indiana. Garner died in Howard county June 2, 1853. Charlotte died in Miami county October 20, 1865.

Cora is my paternal g-grandmother. Orpheous/Orpheus/Orin Sisson was her second husband.

My grandfather, Charles Russell Shrock, was the only child of her brief first marriage to William Howard Shrock. They apparently divorced. My grandfather was known as Rusty Bryant growing up in Converse Indiana where he was raised by his grandmother, Hannah McKay m. Joel Bryant.

I'd appreciate information on this family.

Disease may have fueled violent McCoy outbursts

By MARILYNN MARCHIONE
The Associated Press

The most infamous feud in American folklore, the long-running battle between the Hatfields and McCoys, may be partly explained by a rare, inherited disease that can lead to hair-trigger rage and violent outbursts.

Dozens of McCoy descendants apparently have the disease, which causes high blood pressure, racing hearts, severe headaches and too much adrenaline and other "fight or flight" stress hormones.

No one blames the whole feud on this, but doctors say it could help explain some of the clan's notorious behavior.

"This condition can certainly make anybody short-tempered, and if they are prone because of their personality, it can add fuel to the fire," said Dr. Revi Mathew, a Vanderbilt University endocrinologist treating one of the family members.

members, can cause tumors in the eyes, ears, pancreas, kidney, brain and spine. Roughly three-fourths of the affected McCoys have pheochromocytomas — tumors of the adrenal gland.

The small, bubbly-looking orange adrenal gland sits atop each kidney and makes adrenaline and substances called catecholamines. Too much can cause high blood pressure, pounding headaches, heart palpitations, facial flushing, nausea and vomiting. There is no cure for the disease, but removing the tumors before they turn cancerous can improve survival.

Affected family members have long been known to be combative, even with their kin. Reynolds recalled her grandfather, "Smallwood" McCoy.

"When he would come to visit, everyone would run and hide. They acted like they were scared to death of him. He had a really bad temper,"

"This condition can certainly make anybody short-tempered, and if they are prone because of their personality, it can add fuel to the fire," said Dr. Revi Mathew, a Vanderbilt University endocrinologist treating one of the family members.

The Hatfields and McCoys have a storied and deadly history dating to Civil War times. Their generations of fighting over land, timber rights and even a pig are the subject of dozens of books, songs and countless jokes. Unfortunately for Appalachia, the feud is one of its greatest sources of fame.

Several genetic experts have known about the disease plaguing some of the McCoys for decades, but kept it secret. The Associated Press learned of it after several family members revealed their history to Vanderbilt doctors, who are trying to find more McCoy relatives to warn them of the risk.

One doctor who had researched the family for decades called them the "McC kindred" in a 1998 medical journal article tracing the disease through four generations.

"He said something about us never being able to get insurance" if the full family name was used, said Rita Reynolds, a Bristol, Tenn., woman with the disease. She says she is a McCoy descendant and has documents from the doctor showing his work on her family.

She is speaking up now so distant relatives might realize their risk and get help before the condition proves fatal, as it did to many of her ancestors.

Back then, "we didn't even know this existed," she said. "They just up and died."

Von Hippel-Lindau disease, which afflicts many family members, can cause tumors in the eyes, ears, pancreas, kidney, brain and spine. Roughly three-fourths of the affected McCoys have pheochromocytomas — tumors of the adrenal gland.

The small, bubbly-looking orange adrenal gland sits atop each kidney and makes adrenaline and substances called catecholamines. Too much can cause high blood pressure, pounding headaches, heart palpitations, facial flushing, nausea and vomiting. There is no cure for the disease, but removing the tumors before they turn cancerous can improve survival.

Affected family members have long been known to be combative, even with their kin. Reynolds recalled her grandfather, "Smallwood" McCoy.

"When he would come to visit, everyone would run and hide. They acted like they were scared to death of him. He had a really bad temper," she said.

Her adopted daughter, another McCoy descendant, 11-year-old Winnter Reynolds, just had an adrenal tumor removed at Vanderbilt Children's Hospital. Teachers thought the girl had ADHD — attention deficit hyperactivity disorder. Now, Winnter says, "my parents are thinking it may be the tumor" that caused the behavior. "I've been feeling great since they took it out."

Her adoptive father, James Reynolds, said of the McCoys: "It don't take much to set them off. They've got a pretty good temper.

"Before the surgery, Winnter, when we would discipline her, she'd squeeze her fists together and get real angry and start hollering back at us, screaming and crying," he said.

As for the older McCoys, "they just started dropping dead of the tumors," he said. "They didn't know what it was. A name wasn't really put on the disease until 1968. That's when one of my brothers-in-law had to have surgery, to have some tumors removed in his brain. They started to notice tumors occurring in each of the family members."

Dr. Nuzhet Atuk at the University of Virginia in Charlottesville and geneticists at the University of Pennsylvania studied the family for more than 30 years, Rita Reynolds said.

"They went back on the genealogy and all of that stuff," she said. "They called it madness disease. They said that it had to be coming from the VHL. Our family would just go off, even on the doctors."

Now 85 and retired, Atuk said he could not talk about his work because of medical confidentiality.

Rita Reynolds had two adrenal tumors removed a few years ago. Her mother and three brothers also had them. So do McCoy descendants in Oregon, Michigan and Indiana, she said.

"When you have these tumors, you're easy to get upset," said Rita's mother, Goldie Hankins, 76, of Big Rock, Va., near the Kentucky-West Virginia border. "When people get on your nerves, you just can't take it. You get angry because your blood pressure was so high."

Still, many are dubious that this condition had much of a role in the bitter feud with the Hatfields, which played out in the hill country of eastern Kentucky and West Virginia for decades.

Some say the feud dates to Civil War days, when some members of the families took opposite sides. It grew into disputes over timber rights and land in the 1870s, and gained more notoriety in 1878, when Randolph or "Old Randal" McCoy accused a Hatfield of stealing one of his pigs. The hostilities left at least a dozen dead.

"The McCoy temperament is legendary. Whether or not we can blame it on genes, I don't know," said Randy McCoy, 43, of Durham, N.C., one of the organizers of the annual Hatfield-McCoy reunion. "There are a lot of underpinnings that are probably a more legitimate source of conflict."

"There was a lot of intermarrying" that could have played havoc with the gene pool, he conceded.

Another relative, Bo McCoy, of Waverly, Ohio, said he had never heard talk of the disease although he has been diagnosed with a different adrenal gland problem — Cushing's syndrome.

Even Reo Hatfield, who drafted the "truce" the two families famously signed in 2003 to officially end hostilities, doubted the role of the McCoys' disease in the feud.

"I would be shocked" if doctors blamed it on illness, he said.

Altina Waller, a professor of history at the University of Connecticut and author of a book about the feud, agreed.

"Medical folks like to find these kinds of explanations. Like the Salem witchcraft thing. That book came out about how that was caused by wheat that was grown that had this parasite or mold or fungus or something that caused everybody in Salem to go nuts," she said.

"How does it explain the other dozen or so feuds that I've looked at in other places?" she asked, citing disputes over coal and other issues. "The rage and violence as such was not confined to McCoys."

She acknowledges that an argument could be made for seeing the McCoys as the more aggressive of the clans.

"One of the reasons the McCoys don't like me as much in the Tug Valley as the Hatfields do is that I seem to suggest that Randal McCoy, the patriarch of the family, was sort of irrational and flamboyant and did jump to, into wanting violence more than, say, Anderson Hatfield," Waller said.

These days, the "feud" has taken a far more civil tone and all but disappeared, members of both families say. The last time it surfaced was in January 2003. McCoy descendants sued Hatfield descendants over visitation rights to a small cemetery on an Appalachian hillside in eastern Kentucky. It holds the remains of six McCoys, some allegedly killed by the Hatfields.

The Hatfield clan poses in April 1897 at a logging camp in southern West Virginia. The most infamous feud in American folklore, the long-running battle between the Hatfields and McCoys, may be partly explained by a rare, disease inherited by the McCoy clan that can lead to hair-trigger rage and violent outbursts.

Disorder triggers feuding impulses

Dozens of the McCoy kin have von Hippel-Lindau disease. Some have a complication called pheochromocytomas – adrenal gland tumors that create excess adrenaline and other "fight-or-flight" hormones.

Friends develop a flying car

By TERRY BOX
McClatchy-Tribune News Service

MURPHY, Texas — At a time when most men their age strive just to stay active, Vernon Porter and Clarence Kissell plan to fly.

Porter, 72, and Kissell, 70, are building a flying car — a concept that has been around since 1918 and has largely eluded dozens of inventors, schemers, scammers and dreamers.

Time is a challenge, for obvious reasons. They hope to have an early prototype aloft by this fall and complete work on a final "buildable" prototype in five years or less, says Porter, a cancer survivor.

Every day, Porter, a retired Texas Instruments research scientist, and Kissell, a lifelong friend and homebuilder, meet in a 1,200-square-foot shop behind Porter's home in Murphy to work on the vehicle they call the GT Flyer. Their task will become more challenging in the weeks ahead because the shop lacks air conditioning.

So far, they've spent about $70,000 of their own money. Now they're looking for investors because they think they need $1.2 million more to make a prototype.

"I call most of these promotions on flying cars scams, shams or spam," said Porter, whose house is off of a bumpy country lane. "The history of the flying car is almost a poison well. People remember them from the '50s and realize they never lived up to their potential. We want to show that this thing will fly and that it will work."

The fiberglass and foam body in the men's shop, which Porter and Kissell formed by hand, looks a little like a big tannish-green guppy. The pilot/driver and a passenger will sit in a rounded compartment at the front of the vehicle, and the body tapers gracefully back to a rear-mounted, shrouded propeller flanked by small wings.

The whole thing is about as wide as a minivan and as long as a full-size sport utility vehicle — though with a target weight of 1,200 pounds, it's dramatically lighter than either.

A 232-horsepower rotary engine from a Mazda RX-8 sports coupe will power the vehicle. In car mode, it will drive the front wheels through a Volkswagen transaxle. In flight mode, a driveshaft from the rotary motor will spin the rear-mounted propeller.

The engine sits in a corner of the shop, ready for double duty. The wings, which will fast as a commercial flight can."

Despite the pair's personal credibility — Porter holds numerous patents for work at Texas Instruments, none involving aircraft — they face many questions and doubts.

Several of the vehicles have indeed flown over the years, including one much-photographed craft in the 1950s that looked like a small Fiat that had been rear-ended by a Cessna. But none succeeded commercially or practically, said Jay Miller, an aviation author and historian.

Porter and Kissell, for example, estimate that their vehicle will cost about $135,000.

"The biggest thing against these (flying cars), other than their mechanical complexity, is price," Miller said. "I love to fly. You can buy one hell of a nice airplane for $100,000. Or you could buy a small Lexus and a small plane for that."

Aviation consultant Robert W. Mann Jr. agreed.

"The practicality of these concepts is very difficult to rationalize," he said. "There just isn't a market for these things in the numbers that are being suggested."

The biggest problem is most flying cars are so compromised that they aren't particularly good cars or planes — and typically cost more than either, Miller said.

Undaunted, Kissell has pursued his flying-car dream for 15 years. As a child, he used to skip school to go hang out at airports. He designed the craft that is slowly taking shape in Porter's workshop.

Porter decided to join his friend in the quest after surviving a rare form of bone-marrow cancer diagnosed three years ago. Porter and Kissell grew up together in Riley, in southeast Dallas.

"It sounded like fun," said Porter, who says his primary income is from Social Security. "So many people have failed at this. Here's a chance to really succeed. My degree is in material science, but my interest is in how things work. I just jump into stuff and learn about it as I go."

Porter has sought help from several of his former Texas Instruments colleagues, including Jerry Merryman, hired by Jack Kilby to be project manager over the development of TI's first handheld calculator.

"Well, it's kind of fantastic, but I'm kind of used to fantastic ideas," said Merryman, 74. "I don't know that we will ever have what Popular Science envisioned in the 1930s, which was flying cars in every garage. But there may be a niche for these vehicles among

Deserted baby cases baffle experts as to mothers' motives

By TIM SHEEHAN
McClatchy-Tribune News Service

OROSI, Calif. — Residents and investigators alike ponder how a mother could abandon three newborns in two years, all in the same neighborhood of this small farming town.

And they're not alone.

Abandoned-infant cases like the one focusing a national spotlight on Orosi are as baffling to social service and child-advocacy experts as they are to local detectives searching — so far in vain — for the mother.

Some estimates suggest more than 50 infants are abandoned each day in the United States. Theories abound about why a woman would desert a newborn in some public place — or worse — without knowing whether her child will live or die.

"What makes a person leave a child where it can be easily found, or at a hospital, rather than putting it in a trash can or a roadside to die?" asked Joyce Johnson, a spokeswoman for the Child Welfare League of America in Washington, D.C. "We have no way of knowing."

Because in most cases the mothers are never found, the answers remain missing pieces of a heartbreaking puzzle.

The Orosi case has sparked renewed interest in safe-haven laws that allow mothers to anonymously and legally abandon their babies. But some critics say rather than solving the crisis, such laws add to the uncertainty because they don't give authorities a chance to treat the mother for physical or emotional problems.

Orosi's mystery began Feb. 10, 2005, when a baby boy, less than 2 hours old, was found in front of a home on Paradise Court. It continued 11 months later, on Jan. 8, 2006, as a family living less than two blocks away found a girl less than a day old in the bed of a pickup parked out front. Both babies survived.

After another 11-month interval, on Dec. 3, the tiny body of another girl less than a day old was found in the bed of a pickup — less than two blocks from the others.

Many are quick to judge the mother. They question why she didn't drop off the babies at safe locations such as a hospital or fire station. Such criticism only intensified after the third baby was found dead.

"I think a baby is a gift from God," said Robert Huerta of Cutler, Calif., a town less than a mile south of Orosi. "And to do that — she must not have a heart."

Tulare County coroner's officials named

"We don't know how many might have been raped or coerced with domestic violence. The surprising thing to wonder about is, what motivates a woman to go through this alone? Are they really alone in these cases when they're in labor and delivery?"

Joyce Johnson,
a spokeswoman for the Child Welfare League of America in Washington, D.C.

the dead infant Angelita DeOrosi — Spanish for "little angel of Orosi." She was buried last week in a donated plot at a cemetery in nearby Dinuba.

Disbelief in the community grew to nationwide amazement last week after sheriff's detectives said DNA tests confirmed the three babies were siblings and likely from the same mother.

Investigators already believed the first two cases might be connected. Genetic samples were sent for testing, but officials said a backlog at a state lab kept the two cases from being a top priority until the discovery of the dead baby late last year.

Sgt. Chris Douglass, a sheriff's spokeswoman, said investigators have repeatedly visited Orosi in recent months to follow leads. A handful of those interviewed even gave samples of DNA, but results eliminated them as possibilities.

"No one's been arrested or detained; we're just following leads," Douglass said.

But with leads exhausted, detectives hope a $5,000 reward may prompt tips that will help identify the mother and explain her reasoning.

National experts say the answers in such cases are elusive, except in rare instances where mothers are found.

"We don't know how many might have been raped or coerced with domestic violence," Johnson said of women who feel compelled to conceal a pregnancy or abandon a baby.

"The surprising thing to wonder about is, what motivates a woman to go through this alone?" she added. "Are they really alone in these cases when they're in labor and delivery?"

A lack of accurate information makes the scope of the problem difficult to define.

Kenneth Wolfe, a spokesman for the Administration for Children and Families — a branch of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services in Washington, D.C. — said the federal government leaves it to states to track abandonment cases. There is no requirement for states to report their statistics to federal officials.

Wolfe said the most recent national data were commissioned by Congress in 1998. That year, the government reported, 30,800 babies were abandoned in hospitals across the country; another 105 "discarded" infants were found in other public places, including 33 dead babies.

Project Cuddle, a Costa Mesa, Calif.-based nonprofit organization that offers women and girls support and referrals to prevent abandonments, estimates that as many as 57 babies a day are deserted in the United States.

California is one of 47 states with safe haven laws that permit a mother to leave a newborn at a hospital or fire station without fear of prosecution. Since the state Safely Surrendered Baby law was enacted in 2001, 182 infants were surrendered at such havens, while another 146 infants were found alive after being abandoned elsewhere.

The Orosi abandonments and the death of the third baby prompted Tulare County supervisors to increase the number of safe haven sites where a mother can drop off a newborn under the state law. Thirty city and county fire stations were added to the three hospitals already on the list.

Officials also want to increase awareness of safe havens, blanketing the town with fliers, posters and bumper stickers.

In Sacramento last week, the Assembly Judiciary Committee approved a bill by Assembly Member Alberto Torrico to change the California law. The law currently allows a parent to drop off a newborn up to 3 days old at a hospital or other designated safe haven; Torrico's bill would extend the time to 30 days after a child is born.

Project Cuddle founder Debbe Magnusen said her organization has saved more than 560 babies from abandonment by mothers calling its toll-free hotline since it started in 1996. The group reaches out to pregnant women to offer care, support and alternatives to abandonment, including adoption.

If He Could See Us Now

Bygone times often prompt contemplation. Sitting by the canal one late summer afternoon, I wondered if anyone would recognize our village a hundred years or more from now. Would anyone have memories of the way we know it today?

One hundred and seventy-six years ago, a man and his family traveling from Ohio stopped on the banks of White River, right here where I was standing. He may well have said, "This is perfect. This is just the right spot for me and my family to enjoy each day." In 1835 Jacob Coil was just about 45 years old. He was a farmer by trade and also businessman who burned rock from the White River in a kiln to make lime for mortar used by bricklayers. It is said that his lime was used in building the Old State House.

In 1836 the Great Canal project was funded. This stirred speculation that the area would develop and prosper as immigrants arrived to build the canal. Demand for food, shelter, and clothing during the construction years would spur a thriving community.

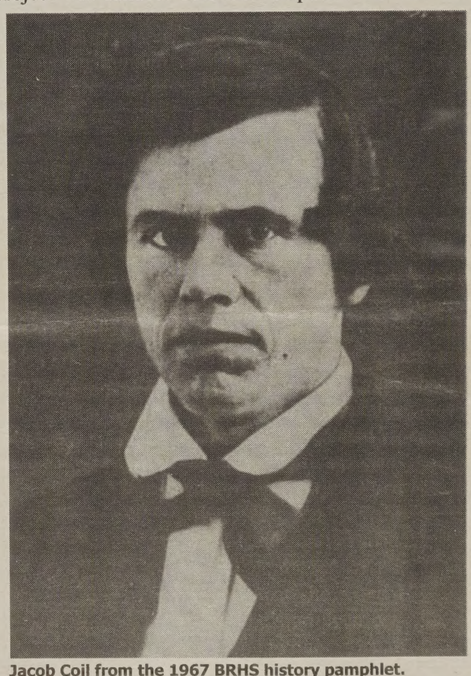
Bygone times often prompt contemplation. Sitting by the canal one late summer afternoon, I wondered if anyone would recognize our village a hundred years or more from now. Would anyone have memories of the way we know it today?

He was a farmer by trade and also businessman who burned rock from the White River in a kiln to make lime for mortar used by bricklayers. It is said that his lime was used in building the Old State House.

In 1836 the Great Canal project was funded. This stirred speculation that the area would develop and prosper as immigrants arrived to build the canal. Demand for food, shelter, and clothing during the construction years would spur a thriving community.



Jacob Coil from the 1967 BRHS history pamphlet.

Coil's neighbors were Jacob McKay and John Calip. These two probably bought their 147 acres from the federal government after the capital of Indiana was founded nearby. Their land ran alongside the wide, broad section of White River that rippled over the stones in the riverbed. When the water level was low, the ripples marked an ideal place for crossing the river. Coil must have anticipated the area's prosperity because in 1836, just a year after leaving Ohio, he bought land from McKay and Calip. I wonder if he dreamed of a community where he could thrive with his family. He had eight children, four of whom survived to adulthood.

On April 20, 1837, Coil laid out 48 lots north of the canal route and thought to call his new place "Broad Ripple." Just four weeks after he announced his new development, James A. and Adam R. Nelson plotted 32 lots on the other side of White River. The settlement was named "Wellington" in honor of the Duke of Wellington and his great victory over Napoleon at Waterloo in 1815. So the two villages began — Broad Ripple to the north and Wellington to the south with only a canal separating them. Unfortunately, Coil died in the autumn of 1837. The first mention of Broad Ripple was in Jacob Coil's will. Ultimately Wellington became part of Broad Ripple.

Because of Coil and the Nelsons, we have a village. The optimism that seems to have defined those original settlements has persisted through the decades. True to that founding spirit, people who come to the shores of the canal tend to prosper and enjoy life. I enjoy the telling about the founding of Broad Ripple. The story is ripe with entrepreneurs and adventures. I also wonder what Jacob Coil would recognize as remnants of his day. Like our forbearers, we never know how the seeds we sow will geminate and grow nor what future they will bring. Only time will tell what we have added to the rich history of our Broad Ripple.

HOWLING AT THE MOON

by Susan Smith

There's been a lot of howling lately about pot holes and parking. It has become the talk of the day. We are abuzz about parking meters and parking garages. We are advocating for mass transit and walkable neighborhoods.

My parents were ahead of the game back in the late 70's. My dad retired at age 62 and did the unthinkable……..he gave up the family car and they never owned another. To the horror of everyone they did it prematurely. I never had to face the dilemma of getting my elderly parents to give up the keys. Dad had traveled for a living and he viewed the car as his office so when he retired he left the "office" behind. They had only had one car and Mom shopped on the weekends. He got a three wheeled bike with baskets. Back then no retired man rode a bike. But he did, down to the fairgrounds before there was a Monon Trail, to the antique shows. He rode it to Paul's Barber Shop. Everyone knew him.

When Dad dropped the bombshell to Mom that they were giving up the car he gave her good reasoning. They lived in the Butler Tarkington neighborhood. Pete's auto service at 49th and Pennsylvania rented cars by the day and they would deliver. It was less expensive to rent a car as needed than to maintain one. Hamaker's Pharmacy and their dentist were at that corner as well and it was an easy walk. The bus stopped at the end of their street and went down Meridian to downtown where Mom got her hair done at L.S. Ayres. Winona Hospital was a thriving Medical Center at 34th & Meridian and all of their doctors were at the Professional Building that the bus passed by. Mom went down fighting. She was devastated, embarrassed and mad as heck. What would her friends think? She became dependent on everyone for a ride. The bus did not go to the Riviera Club where she played bridge with her friends. Nor did it go to church at 47th and Central where she was involved in the Women's Circle. I took her to the grocery on Saturdays and her friends would take her to the Standard Grocery at 56th & Illinois on the way home from Rivi. She felt like she was imposing on everyone. She did as much as she could downtown but it became difficult as she aged for her to haul things home on the bus and carry it a block down the street. They rented the car seldom, as did others, and that option went away as the service was dropped. Time passed. Winona Hospital closed and the doctors moved north on Meridian to 91st & beyond. Ayres closed and her hairdresser moved. Hamaker Pharmacy closed. Her street was never plowed and there were no sidewalks. It became treacherous for her to walk on rutted snow and ice. I worried about her vulnerability as an old woman, ripe for purse snatching at a bus stop. I worried that Dad would get robbed on his bike because he always carried cash. He rode the bike for 20 years.

Most all of the conveniences diminished and continue to do so today. We are trying to bring them back but small businesses and services are being overpowered by corporate "Big Boxes". Even the doctors are being "Big Boxed". Today, despite all the cooking shows on TV, it seems no one cooks, so where once stood drugstores and retailers there are now restaurants and bars. They would not have served my mom and dad well. Today the new generation tells the old generation, with little respect "if you don't like it move to the suburbs where the stores are". Someday they will realize that it is hard giving up your home where all your memories are and you have the security of your long-time neighbors.

Today I try to walk an hour a day and have for nearly 15 years. I have fallen four times due to infrastructure. Sadly, you have to keep your eyes on the sidewalk and not look at the view around you. Once my walking buddy fell due to an out of control car that drove up towards the sidewalk. I work 4 blocks from my home but do not walk to work. I take my briefcase with laptop, purse, lunch, sometimes needed replacement supplies and my cat Sarah. Too much to haul down unshoveled sidewalks and ice covered streets. Not to mention the hazards of drivers veering away from potholes in my direction. Walking this last summer in the 90's everyday was a challenge as well. Arriving dripping wet with sweat or rain is not a good professional look. Many months of the year are perfect but others are trying. I find I need a car to leave to go to other places after work or to go between work locations hauling stuff. As for Sarah Cat, I could get a pet stroller. That is why they are made. But she'd be stuffed in there with all the other things I'd be taking. And then everyone would be saying "there goes that crazy lady with the cat". They're probably saying that anyway. Pets make you smile.

Then countermarched to an open field between Citico creek and Mission Ridge. Two companies under Capts. Hill and McKay were advanced as skirmishers. The enemy was in full view. The order was to storm their rifle-pits, but before the bugle sounded the skirmishers had taken them; then the brigade rushed forward for the final assault. The troops rested about ten minutes in the captured rifle-pits under a furious cannon fire. "The officers and men became wild with enthusiasm and desire to advance."

"When the bugle sounded, and Col. Hays gave the command forward, one wild yell went up and forward they swept over an open plain through the camp of the enemy, and gained the foot of the ridge under a terrible enfilading fire of artillery from Tunnell Hill, knocking down the huts of the enemy's camp, and tearing up the ground in every direction, but the men never wavered or faltered. When the foot of the hill had been gained and ascent commenced, the line of battle was lost. The strongest men got the right of the regiment and went first and the weaker men formed the left. Many fell going up the hill as if exhausted, but would rest a moment and then forward again. Having reached the top of the ridge and driven the enemy from their first line of works toward Tunnell Hill, Col. Hays formed the regiment on the left of the 2d Brigade, 3d Division, and advanced with this brigade about one hundred and fifty yards, when the enemy were again discovered in force and making another stand."

The fight here lasted about twenty minutes, and the enemy gave way, broke and fled precipitately. The 10th bivouacked on the field. The next day advanced with the pursuit to West Chickamauga Creek, a distance of eight miles; the next day, the 27th, reached Ringgold; on the 28th aided in destroying the railroad and bridges. On the 29th marched back to the camp at Chattanooga.

The 10th remained with the army at Chattanooga during the winter. In February it advanced with the troops under Gen. Thomas and fought at Rocky Face February 25th. In the spring prepared for the Atlanta campaign. In the organization, May 3, 1864, it was brigaded with the 10th and 74th Ind. and 18th Ky., 3d Brigade, 3d Division, 14th Army Corps. Thanks for the tip. Do you happen to have any information on Chancy and Margaret or their children? I'm researching the Bray family and Margaret is a sister of my 2nd Great Grandfather. Any information would be appreciated.

Becky

Chancy McKAY m. Margaret BRAY on 23 Nov 1843 in Switzerland Co., IN. According to the 1850 census they had three sons; Samuel, Henry and William. Apparently they moved elsewhere prior to the 1860 census. But where? Any information on Chancy & Margaret & descendants would be appreciated.

Thank You,
Becky Wiseman

About FamilySearch Pedigree Resource File:
The Pedigree Resource File is a new lineage linked database of records available on compact disc containing family history records submitted by individuals through FamilySearch Internet Genealogy Service. Family information is organized in family groups and pedigrees and includes submitted notes and sources. Many charts and reports can be printed from this data. Each disc contains about 1.1 million names. With the publication of every five discs, a master index for those discs will be published and packaged with that set of discs. With the publication of every 25 discs, a master index for those discs will also be published and packaged with that volume of discs. Discs may be purchased as sets or volumes.

Please Note:
Submitter information is provided to help in the coordination of personal family history research. Use of this information for any other purpose, including marketing, advertising, or commercial solicitation, is strictly prohibited.

GAINES, JAMES (1776-1856). James Gaines, a signer of the Texas Declaration of Independence,qv was born on November 14, 1776, in Culpeper County, Virginia, the son of Thomas and Susanah (Strother) Gaines and a descendant of the distinguished Pendleton family. He was a double first cousin to United States Army general Edmund Pendleton Gaines,qv with whom he worked in 1803-04 by order of President Thomas Jefferson to survey lands along the Natchez Trace. He was christened Robert Thomas but changed his name to James around 1810. Gaines operated a Sabine River ferry by 1812. He raised and commanded troops in the Gutiérrez-Magee expedition,qv an effort to wrest Texas from Spain. Tall, red-haired, and red-faced, he was "Captain Colorado" to the Alabama and Coushatta Indians he commanded. After defeat in San Antonio, Gaines went to Virginia and fought against the British in the War of 1812. In 1819 he bought the long-established ferry on El Camino Real, and with his sons and employees operated the facility over twenty years, bringing (it was said) four-fifths of the colonists across from the United States to Texas. He served as alcalde for the Sabine District of the Municipality of Nacogdoches in 1824, sheriff in Nacogdoches in 1828, and postmaster for years. Beside the ferry, he operated an inn and mercantile store and forwarded mail across the boundary into the United States. He later founded the town of Pendleton on this site.

In 1826-27 Gaines was a decisive leader in the forces opposing Haden Edwards in the Fredonian Rebellion,qqv and by his stand on behalf of the old settlers made enemies who injured his reputation in later years. However, he retained the respect and loyalty of the electorate and represented the Sabine region in Washington-on-the-Brazos in March at the Convention of 1836.qv Here he served on the drafting committee for the Declaration of Independence, signed the declaration, and helped write the Constitution of the Republic of Texas.qv In the republic he served as a senator in the Fourth, Fifth, and Sixth congresses, representing Shelby, Sabine, and Harrison counties. In February 1843 Gaines sold his ferry and moved to Nacogdoches, where he led campaigns to obtain annexationqv for Texas. He soon moved to Bastrop in Central Texas, where he owned and operated a hotel. With news of the California gold rush, his sons Edmund and John B. went with other East Texans along the Gila Trail to the mines to make their fortunes, and James Gaines himself arrived on the steamer Ecuador in San Francisco on August 23, 1850. He was instrumental in imposing law and order in the mine fields and held office for years in Mariposa County. He and his sons discovered the rich Gaines Ledge of gold and established the Mount Gaines Mine, which still exists. Although his sons returned to Texas, Gaines remained at the mine, as his wife had died and he had no home in Texas.

Gaines was married three times. He and his first wife, Isabella Christian of Tennessee, had a daughter; he and his second wife, Katherine Vincent of Indiana, had two sons; he and his third wife, Susanah Norris of the Nacogdoches municipality, had six children. Enemies charged Gaines committed bigamy when he married for the second time, but proof is lacking. Gaines died on November 12, 1856, and is buried near Oakland, California.

What is the William Strother Society, Inc.?

The William Strother Society, Inc. is a family association dedicated to perpetuating the memories of our ancestors and furthering fellowship among the descendants of William Strother (immigrant). Founded in 1986 and incorporated in Virginia in 1992 as a non-profit organization, the Society's members include descendants and their families of William Strother (immigrant), related families and others interested in the Strother family. Today there are almost 400 active members in the Society from throughout the United States and around the world.

William Strother (immigrant) settled in colonial Virginia in the seventeenth century in what is now King George County on the Rappahannock River near Port Conway. William's will, probated in 1702, names his wife Dorothy and six children: William, James, Jeremiah, Robert, Benjamin and Joseph. These six sons gave us a Strother family, which includes U.S. presidents, military leaders, judges, and legislators.

Society members meet at a conference held every two years in different locations, usually in Virginia. The next conference will be July 17-19, 2008 in Richmond, Virginia. Activities will include tours of historical sites, genealogical workshops, social gatherings and numerous opportunities to share family information. Members will be available to assist those uncertain of their Strother "roots."

Our "Houses of Strother Newsletter" is published quarterly. It includes articles on the history of the Strother family, tips on genealogical research, queries from those seeking family information, and information from our members. The Society Genealogist maintains a Strother family computer database and is available to assist those looking for their ancestors. Activities of the Society have included lineage publications, a tour to England and an archaeological "dig" at the original Strother homestead. Also, the Strother General Store has Strother material and memorabilia for sale.

The Strother Foundation, Incorporated was separately incorporated in 1996. The Foundation has qualified as a tax-exempt organization under Internal Revenue Service code section 501(c) (3). The Foundation is organized primarily for the preservation of historical sites; research, publication of historical material; and archaeological studies. A separate board of directors and officers operates the Foundation.

PROOF OF RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN WILLIAM GAINES AND HIS BROTHER FRANCIS GAINES

Some have stated that there was no documented proof that Richard Gaines,d.1755-56,Culpeper Co.Va. was the father of William Gaines (wife,Isabella Pendleton).The following documental evidence,however,clearly establishes that Francis Gaines (cal708-1775) and William Gaines (wife,Isabella Pendleton) were brothers and that their father was the said Richard.

In the settlement of the estate (only an inventory) of Richard Gaines,Culpeper Co.,Va.,Will Book A,page 133-134 ; 205,July 16,1756,Francis Gaines was named administrator by the court and in his report to the court he mentioned his expense "in moving mother".Thus,it is very evident that Francis Gaines,the administrator of the estate of Richard was also the son of said Richard and perhaps the oldest son.The mother's name was not mentioned and to date no documentary evidence has been found to even indicate her name,even though some have stated that her maiden name was Catherine Madison.

The Will of Francis Gaines,wife Dorthy,St.Marks Parrish,Culpeper Co.,Va.dated September 26,1775,proved July 15,1776,stated " I give Isabella Gaines,daughter of my nephew Henry Gaines,the sum of 32 pounds to be paid out of the amount due from her father to me." This 'nephew Henry Gaines' was the son of William and Isabella (Pendleton) Gaines as Henry Gaines the son of James and Mary (Pendleton) Gaines did not have a daughter named Isabella.The Will of Dorthy Gaines,wife of Francis Gaines,dated Apr.24,1786 stated "I appoint my nephew Richard Gaines and my friend George Cardwell to execute my last Will...." This Richard Gaines was a son of Henry Gaines and a grandson of William and Isabella (Pendleton Gaines.He could not have been Richard George Gaines,son of Henry Gaines and grandson of James and Mary (Pendleton) Gaines as he was living in South Carolina at the time.

The Will of Henry Gaines (cal733-1811),son of William and Isabella (Pendleton) Gaines was dated October 19, 1810,proved June 7,1811,Will Book II,page 302,Madison Co. Va. In this will are the following statments :-"Daughter Isbel provided for: in addition,2 cows and (?) calves." Also in settlement,June 3,1823,Book V,page 82,Madison Co.,Va.the following statements :-"Deduct for Isabel Carter's legacy." Then,"Cash paid John Wright's administartor's on account of shares of Nancy,Richard and William Gaines." Also,"Cash paid John Wright's Committee for shares of Nancy,Richard and William Gaines." "Settlements completed March 22,1827."

Isabel,Nancy,Richard and William Gaines were children of Henry Gaines who was a son of William and Isabella (Pendleton) Gaines.Therefor,conclusive evidence,as above steted makes Willaim Gaines (wife Isabella Pendleton)and Francis Gaines (wife,Dorthy) brothers and Richard Gaines,d.1755 Culpeper Co.,Va.,their father.

Another record which indicated that William and Francis Gaines were brothers is that both of them took out adjoining land grants in Culpeper Co.,Va.in 1756, from Lord Fairfax. Since William had no son named Francis and Francis had no son named William,the probabilities,from this fact,strongly indicates that they were brothers. In the Will of Richard Burdyne (1761) Culpeper Co.,Va.the statement is made that his land is bounded by lands of Francis and William Gaines-Mary R.Riley.

on the strength of strong circumstantial evidence and traditions. The dates of birth (if known) of the nine sons would indicate a period of fifteen years between James, b. 1710 and Thomas, b. 1725 wherein there are no recorded births. The dates of birth of John, Roger and Robert are not known, but even if they would have been born between 1710 and 1725, there remain periods where additional children could have been born. A tradition exists that two sons of Richard were lost in the disastrous Braddock campaign, which could account for a total of eleven sons. One author on the Gaines family has this Richard the father of 12 sons, but names only one-James.

For many years this Richard Gaines of Culpeper County and the Richard Gaines, wife "Dorrity", of Middlesex County, Virginia were confused by those who were establishing Gaines lineage, as well as those who placed Richard of Culpeper and Henry Gaines, d. 1734, wife Sarah Brooks, as brothers instead of cousins. Henry Gaines, the youngest son of Richard Gaines of Culpeper, had a son named Humphrey Gaines who married Elizabeth Warren and Henry Gaines, wife Sarah Brooke, also had a son named Humphrey Gaines. This similarity of names resulted in much disarrangement in the subject Gaines lines. Our Welsh ancestors had a purpose when they named the different Johns as John of Newton, John of Aberbran, etc. They had to do it in order to know who they were talking about. Then when they came to America such methods of classification ceased and then the problems of researching in the Gaines lineage began. So many Richards, Henrys, Roberts, Johns, and many others with no way of knowing one from another except through documentary proof, slow and tedious.

Conjecture became easier and with the best of intentions lines were established but were inaccurate, as more evidence became enlightening. For the present time, at least, the compiler herein outlines to the best of his information and the documentary proof available, these early Richards, Henrys and Humphreys. The data which follows in this book concerns only the descendants of the Richard Gaines of Culpeper, also the following index numbers do not in any way coincide with any index figures in the following pages. They were only used for clarity in the outline as presented.

"The Gaines Hillix Family's Home Page"

Jpdated November 9, 2007

Gaines A. Hillix
ghillix@comcast.net

Edit Your Page

am descended from James H. Hillix* and Ann B. Walker, of Kentucky and England, m'd in Clermont Co., OH 07 DEC 1815, later of Fayette and Woodford Co's, KY. Ann B. Walker-Hillix came west to Buchanan Co, MO in 1853, then to Leavenworth Co., KS in about 1860 and to Platte Co, MO n about 1867. Their children were; Marian, John W., Henry H., William Walker(my ancestor), Cora Ann, James M., Elizabeth and Charles Hamilton Hillix.

ames H. Hillix served in Stewart W. Megowan's 7th Company of Kentucky Mounted Volunteer Militia during the War of 1812. This unit served with valor at the battle of the Thames in Canada in the fall of 1813. Ann B. Walker-Hillix received two(2) bounty- land grants for his service(1850 & 1855), vhich were later sold, and also a widow's pension.

Henry H. Hillix served in the Mexican War as a blacksmith/farrier.

Hamilton(Ham) Hillix served in Landis' Battery of Missouri Light Artillery in the Confederate States Army. He was killed in action in the Federal siege of Vicksburg, Mississippi in June, 1863 by a cannon shell that exploded above him while he was sleeping behind a redoubt.

'My latest findings are that there was a will probated and filed for Henry Hillock in Fayette Co, Ky dated June 11, 1800 leaving his estate to James Hambleton Hillock. It was recorded in July, 1800. Also, James Hillix's muster role records show the spelling of his name changing from Hillock to Hillix luring his service in the War of 1812. I have also learned of another child of James Hillix and Ann B. Walker, Marian(Mary) Hillix. I'm interested in any nformation that might help lead to a connection with Henry Hillock or on the surname Hillock prior to 1800.

And from James Gaines/Rebecca Adams and John Robinson/Robertson Gaines/Margaret Breckenridge, whose children Sarah(DOB 23FEB 1830, Woodford Co., KY) and Orange Reed Gaines(DOB 07May 1828), 1st cousins, were m'd 13MAY 1849 in Woodford Co, KY, and are my direct ancestors. They came west to Platte Co, MO by river boat landing at Weston, MO on 01AUG 1849. Richard P. Gaines, their uncle, preceded them to Clay Co., MO in 1842 and then to Platte County in 1843. He owned a hotel on the town square in Platte City until his death in 1853. Orange Gaines was a farmer and served in the Paw Paw Militia formed during the civil war under Captain Simpson. The militia was formed to protect the residents of Platte County from raiders and guerillas sometimes called "bushwackers or red legs.". The Paw Paw's were a series of home guard units formed on the union side, but the Platte County company were accused of being southern sympathizers and supporting, if not participating in the infamous Quantrill's Raid on Lawerence, KS. This was in retaliation for raids by federal abolitionists from Kansas, called the "Jayhawkers." The town square of Platte City, MO was burned by union troops in retaliation of the raid on Lawerence, KS. Platte County lost 2/3 of its population during the Civil War because of the border wars.

am looking for any information on these names; James, John Robinson/Robertson, Robert, Richard P., William, Lucy Gaines of Woodford County, KY n the 1800-1850 time period and Robert Gaines, wife Ursula, who died in 1763 in Spotsylvania Co., VA.

Robert Gaines, m. Ann Jenkins, was a Revolutionary War soldier born in Spotsylvania Co, VA in 1765. He served in the Revolution in 1780 in the place of his father, who had been drafted into service. He was only 15 years old. He died in Woodford Co., KY in Dec. 1833. He was the son of William and grandson of Robert Gaines, m. Ursula, who died in 1763 in Spotsylvania Co., VA near the Orange County line. Robert, m. Ursula was believed to be a sibling of William Gaines, m. Isabella Pendelton and a son of Richard Gaines. However, Sutherd's last edition of his book on Gaines indicates that was not proven.

Edmund Pendleton Gaines and Frontier Problems, 1801-1849

By James W. Silver

When the completed story of the westward moving frontier has been written, the achievements of the regular army as a peacetime institution and the contributions of many individuals who are now buried in comparative obscurity will undoubtedly assume more important proportions. This is well illustrated in the work of Edmund Pendleton Gaines, a product of frontier environment, in whose career as an army officer from 1801 to 1849 most of its problems appeared. A study of his life indicates that the attempt to solve these difficulties led to the evolution of a definite frontier philosophy devoted to the protection and internal development of his section as a way to a greater nation. While it is true that General Gaines was not one of the primary American figures of the nineteenth century, it is equally certain that his services to many of the expanding sectors of the country in their early development have not been adequately acknowledged. Particularly was he concerned with problems of the southern and southwestern frontiers.

Most histories of the United States and a great many special studies have mentioned General Gaines but as they have not presented his entire career in its proper perspective, a distorted view is conveyed. Writers who have treated him in one or two isolated episodes have usually seemed oblivious to the fact that the lesser incident might not be adequately explained except in relation to the whole. For this reason Gaines has not only received cursory treatment but has been frequently condemned for actions which, when viewed in the light of his own experience in its entirety, not only appear logical but sometimes deserving of the highest praise. The reason for this unsatisfactory handling seems to lie mainly in the fact that each writer has discovered Gaines as an important though usually secondary character in his own particular field of investigation, and has not known or taken ef: "Some Prominent Virginia Families," Vol II-IV, Chapter X., pp. 224-231.

ef: Harleian, 1552, folios 241 and 246, "Visitation of Norfolk, 1613.", Harleian Society, Vol. 32, page 219.

he following is taken from "Some Prominent Virginia Families," Vol II-IV, Chapter X., pp. 224:

Three miles from Manchester, in co. Lancashire, England, is the town of Pendleton, known as a portion of Salfordborough. Over the door of one of the ins swings the arms of the Pendleton family, exactly like those brought to the America by the emigrant, Philip Pendleton. Some little distance off is the anor house, occupied still by a family of Pendletons, and around the old church are the tombs of the departed Pendletons. Here we pause, feeling urselves aliens in our father's house. Under that roof truss are the records that would carry us back along the line of English history until we found the ncestor whose bravery in the Crusades, won him the right to place upon his shield the silver pilgrim's shells, which form a distinctive feature of the coat-f-arms. The family evidently belonged to English gentry, a purer and prouder distinction oftentimes than many of the titles which have changed hands nd family names many times as they come down the avenue of ages."

rom "Virginia Families," we find the following:

The name of Pendleton seems to have been originally Pen-Hulton, meaning "top of the hill;" then Pen-Elton and finally Pendleton. The anme id from wo Gaelic words, pendle and dun, meaning summit (or top) and hill, respectively. In Lancashire the name appears as early as 1246 when Siward de enelton, deceased, was mentioned. The same year in the Assize Rolls of Lancashire, mention was made of Thomas de Parva Pendleton, who was surety or Adam. Rochard and Roger de Penelton, sons of Matilda de Penelton, who was probably the widow of Siweard de Penelton. In 1332 Adam de Penelton aid taxes there. The town of Pendleton was a portion of Salfordborough. Judge Edmund Pendleton of Virginia, in his Family Chronology of 1792 stated hat "About the year 1674 Nathaniel Pendleton, a Minister, and Philip Pendleton, a school master, sons of Henry Pendleton of the City of Norwich, co. Norfolk, in England, came thence to Virginia in America.....In 1469 Thomas Pendleton was living in Lancashire, in which county he held lands; at the ame time were two brothers, William and Robert Pendleton, who were probably his sons. Another member of the family was the Rev. Henry Pendleton 1521-1557), who may have been a brother of George Pendleton, Sr., who lived in the town of Pendleton during the reign of King Henry VII. (1485-509). Thomas Pendleton, who died in 1534, was a nephew of the Rev. Henry Pendleton; he had five sons: George, Edward, etc.....George Pendleton, Esq., Sr., of the town of Pendleton, was living in the reign of King Henry VIII. (1509-1547)."

he first name upon the Virginia record is that of George Pendleton, Esquire, of the town of Pendleton, Lancashire, England.

- 1. George Pendleton, Sr, Esq., married about 1557. He had a son, George Pendleton, Jr.
- 2. George Pendleton, Jr, born about 1558, died in 1603, buried at St. Stephen's, Norwich, on October 27, 1603, the family having moved to Norfolk. He was admitted to the Freedom of Norwich as a Scrivener's apprentice on September 21, 1578. He married at St. Peters Mancroft, Norwich, co. Norfolk, England, on July 29, 1579, Elizabeth Pettingale, born about 1562, in Swardiston, co. Norfolk, England, died January 27, 1625, in Norwich, co. Norfolk, buried at St. Stephen's, Norwich, on January 27, 1625, daughter of John Pettingale, a Gentleman, of Swardiston (Norwich), co. Norfolk. They had the following children:
  - 1. George Pendleton, died young.
  - 2. Henry Pendleton, Sr. See below.
  - 3. Francis Pendleton, buried at St. Stephen's, in Norwich, October 8, 1618, married, in 1610, Anne _____. They had six children, all baptized at St. Stephens's: Elizabeth, Anne, Susan, Mary, Elizabeth, and Enoch.
  - 4. Anne Pendleton.
  - 5. George Pendleton, buried at St. Simon and St. Jude's, June 1, 1621, married February 13, 1614, Elizabeth Osborne.

- 3. Henry Pendleton, Sr, born in 1583, Norwich, co. Norfolk, died in 1635, buried July 15, 1635, in St. Stevens, Norwich, co. Norfolk, England, married in St. Simon & St. Jude's, on September 30, 1605, Susan Camden, born about 1584, daughter of Humphrey Camden, born in 1562, married September 13, 1581 to Cecily Pettus, born in 1560, in Norwich, co. Norfolk. Susan was the granddaughter of Sir Thomas Pettus, Mayor of Norwich in 1591, who married Christian Dethick, daughter of Simon Dethick, Esq. of North Elmham, Norfolk. Sir Thomas Pettus was a son of John Pettus, Esq., whose father was Thomas Pettus, an opulent citizen of Norwich, who was buried in St. Edmund's, Lombard Street, London. See this lineage under the Pettus Line. Henry had the Freedom of Norwich as a Sciptor on September 6, 1605. They had the following thirteen children:
    - 1. George Pendleton, baptized at St. Stephen's, April 1, 1607, buried there June 2, 1607.
    - 2. Cecily Pendleton, baptized at St. Stephen's, July 3, 1608, married, February 19, 1625, Thomas Fitton.
    - 3. John Pendleton, baptized at St. Stephen's, July 27, 1609, buried there January 9, 1637.
    - 4. Susan Pendleton, baptized at St. Stephen's, July 27, 1609, buried there January 9, 1637. The coincidence of the birth and death date of John and Susan seem to suggest an error.
    - 5. Henry Pendleton, born September 19, 1613, Norwich, co. Norfolk, England, baptized at St. Stephen's, September 19, 1613, buried there September 26, 1613.
    - 6. Henry Pendleton, Jr, born in 1614. See below
    - 7. Anne Pendleton', baptized at St. Stephen's, June 20, 1615.
    - 8. Abigail Pendleton, baptized at St. Stephen's, October 20, 1617, buried there December 28, 1617.
    - 9. Thomas Pendleton, baptized at St. Stephen's, February 29, 1619. Note the Leap Year birthdate.
    - 10. Matilda Pendleton, baptized at St. Stephen's, February 23, 1619.
    - 11. Mary Pendleton, baptized at St. Stephen's, July 27, 1623.
    - 12. Matthew Pendleton, baptized at St. Stephen's, November 30, 1624. buried there January 23, 1626.
    - 13. George Pendleton, baptized at St. Stephen's, December 13, 1626.
- 4. Henry Pendleton, Jr, born in 1614, baptized December 26, 1614, in St. Stephen's, Norwich, co. Norfolk, England, died in 1682, married in 1636, (1) Hanna _____, died in 1648, buried April 15, 1648, St. Peters Mancroft, Norwich, co. Norfolk, England. On September 8, 1637, he had the Freedom of Norwich as a grocer. They had the following children:
    - 1. Henry Pendleton, baptized at St. Peter's Mancroft, March 4, 1637, died before 1676. He was married and had two children: Henry Pendleton and John Pendleton.
    - 2. John Pendleton, baptized at St. Peter's Mancroft, December 7, 1640.
    - 3. Matthew Pendleton, baptized at St. Peter's Mancroft, December 22, 1642.
    - 4. Samuel Pendleton, born September 6, 1647, baptized at St. Peter's Mancroft, September 14, 1647, buried there November 30, 1647.

      Henry Pendleton, Jr., married in 1649, (2) Elizabeth Douglas (Douglass), who probably died in 1708. She survived him and was granted administration on his estate, December 20, 1682, in Norwich. They had the following children:

        - 1. Rev. Nathaniel Pendleton, born March 31, 1650, baptized at St. Peter's Mancroft, April 7, 1650. He was admitted to the Merchant Taylor's School, London, in 1661; in 1669 he was admitted sizar Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, as a son of "Henry Pendleton, Merchant, of Norwich." He was an A.B. of Corpus Christi in 1672. On September 20, 1673, he was ordained Deacon in the Church of England by the Bishop of Norwich; he became Curate of Badwell Ask in Suffolk and in 1674 came to Virginia with his younger brother, Philip. He died very soon, leaving no children.
        - 2. Phillip Pendleton, born in 1654. See below
    - 5. Philip Pendleton, born March 26, 1654, in Norwich, co. Norfolk, England, baptized April 2, 1654, in St. Peter's Mancroft, Norwich, in died November 9, 1721, in King and Queen County, Virginia, the same year that his son Henry died, and the same year that his grandson, Edmund Pendleton, was born. At the age of 20, in 1674, with his brother, the Rev. Nathaniel Pendleton, he migrated to Virginia, where he was apprenticed to Edmund Craske, Clerk of Rappahannock County, and in 1678 he was Deputy Clerk of that county. He later lived in Essex County, and about the beginning of the 18th century he moved to King and Queen County. In 1704 his name appears on the Rent Roll of King and Queen County, as owning 300 acres. In the same year his son, Henry Pendleton, was taxed for 700 acres. His emigration to Virginia in 1674 from England, was influenced, according to one record, by a cousin, Thomas Pettus, son of either John or Thomas Pettus, brothers. This Thomas Pettus was one of the early councilors of the Virginia Colony. About 1682 Philip returned to England, at the terminal illness and death of his father, and tradition says he was married, and his wife died. There may be no foundation for this. In 1682 he returned to the colony and married Isabella Hurt, or Hart. Her parentage is unknown. Philip Pendleton was a schoolmaster. He and his wife are said to have lived in New Kent County, but the parish records of that county, which are very early and very full, do not contain the names of any Pendletons. It is more probable that they lived in King and Queen County, Virginia. He signed a deed in Essex County in 1677, and his son, Henry, signed one there in 1719, and is designated as being from King and Queen County, VA. He was probably a man of quiet tastes and not progressive enough to build up a large estate, as many of his contemporaries did. They had the following children:

- 1. Henry Pendleton, eldest son, born in 1683, in Rappahannock, Virginia, died in 1721, in King and Queen County, VA., the same year his youngest son, Edmund, was born. He married in 1701, Mary Taylor, daughter of James Taylor, of Carlisle, England, who died April 30, 1698, and his second wife (whom he married August 10, 1682), Mary Gregory, daughter of John and Elizabeth (Bishop?) Gregory of Farnham and Sittingbourne Parishes, Rappahannock County, of which he was a Vestryman in 1665. Henry was eighteen and Mary thirteen years of age at the time of their marriage. On February 20, 1663, Henry had a grant of 600 acres in Rappahannock County. He was referred to as Captain on May 24, 1676. He died late in the year of 1676. His wife, Mary Taylor, after his death in 1721, married in 1723, (2) Edward Watkins. Almost all the Pendletons of Virginia trace their descent from Henry Pendleton and Mary Taylor. Henry and Mary (Taylor) Pendleton of St. Stephen's Parish, King and Queen County, had seven children as follows:
  - 1. James Pendleton, born in 1702, died in 1761 or 1763, married Mrs. Mary Lyall, of Lancaster County, Virginia. They had four children as follows:
    - 1. James Pendleton, born in 1735 and died in 1793; he was a Member of the House of Burgesses from Culpepper County, Justice of that county in 1762-3-4, and High Sheriff in 1762. He was one of the Culpepper Minute Men and later a Colonel of the Culpepper Militia in the Revolutionary War. On May 21, 1763, he succeeded his brother, Henry Pendleton, as Surveyor of the Roads. From 1782 to 1788 he was a member of the House of Delegates. In 1788 he was Sheriff of Culpepper County. In 1763 he married Catherine Bowie (1747-1795), daughter of John and Judith (Catlett) Bowie. They had the following children:
      - 1. John Pendleton (1766-1807), married on November 9, 1785, his cousin, Elizabeth Taylor, daughter of James and Anne (Pendleton) Taylor (see below). There are many descendants from them.

during the 2020 budget discussions.

"These are key positions," Phipps said. "Their pay is low when compared to comparable positions working for other local units of government in the state.

"We're competing with private companies," he said. "Baltimore was recently hit with a ransomware demand that shut down their government operations."

Phipps also said that the County Council's hiring freeze resolution adopted in 2018 exceeded their authority.

The commissioners are trying to fill the vacant drainage coordinator position, which has not been before the County Council's Personnel Committee for approval.

Phipps said numerous other officeholders have not followed the guidelines established by the council when vacant positions were filled.

"I disagree with the resolution," he said. "It goes beyond the authority of the county council as the fiscal body."

Kelly Gaskill, president of the Madison County Board of Commissioners, said several people have applied for the job, but the Personnel Committee has not met.

"We've kicked the can down the road," she said. "We need to fill the position."
